FIRST LIST OF REPORTED DEAD IN JAPAN GIVEN

Americans Among Victims of Disaster Which Swept Nation

Washington, Sept. 5.—No Americans are believed to have lost their lives in Tokyo although it is reported that some were killed in Yokohama, Cyrus E. Woods, American ambassador to Japan, cabled Acting Secretary of State Phillips today.

Woods estimated the total dead in the city of Tokyo at 10,000, a figure far below previous unofficial estimates of the past two days.

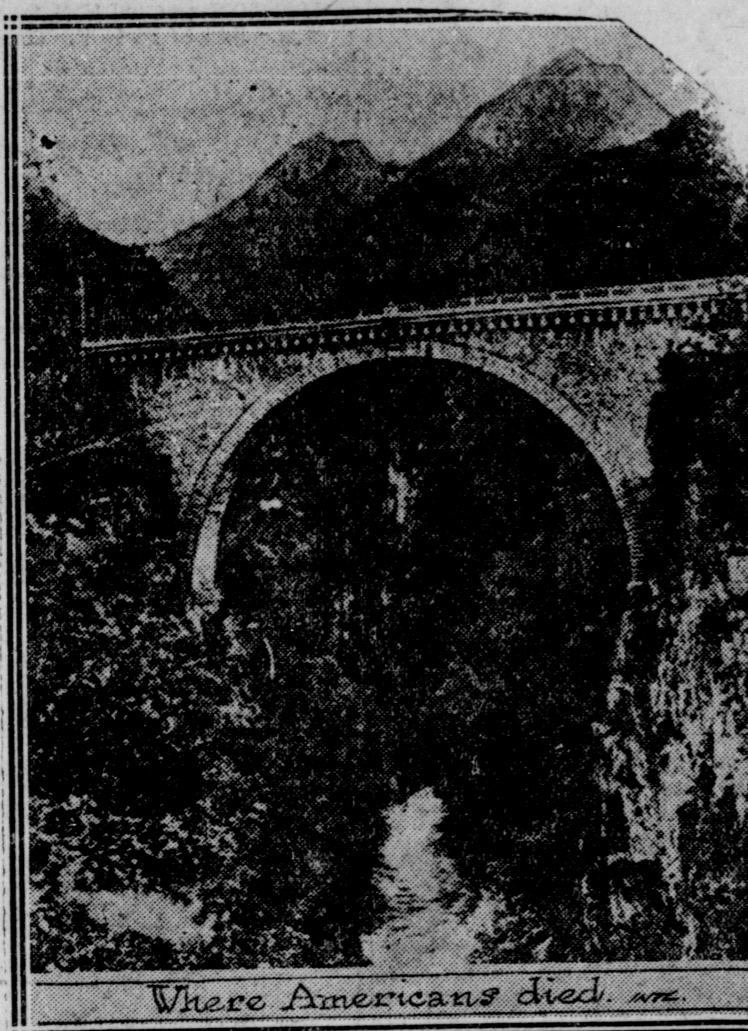

The situation in Yokohama, the city hardest hit by the earthquake, was described as "exceedingly serious," but the ambassador said it was still impossible to tell how many Americans had been killed or injured.

The food situation remains acute throughout the stricken area despite the arrival of some ships with supplies.

Woods made another urgent request that supplies be rushed from the Philippines and he was advised this morning by cable and wireless from the state department that ships were leaving Manila today with food, medical equipment and other material.

Earl Dickober, the American consulate Kobs, cabled official confirmation of the death of Paul F. Jenks, the American vice consul at Yokohama. His home was in Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHERE AMERICAN TOURISTS PLUNGED TO DEATH.

Twenty-three persons, several of them Americans, were killed when a motor omnibus plunged down this 250-foot-deep ravine near Saint-Sauveur-Les, Napoleon Bridge, in the Pyrenees, in France. Seven others were seriously injured. The driver of the omnibus swerved to avoid hitting a woman emerging from the tunnel. There have been several other fatal automobile accidents since then in the immediate vicinity.

PINCHOT FIGHTING WITH BACK AGAINST WALL IN COAL ISSUE

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 5.—Fighting with his back to the wall, Governor Gifford Pinchot today prepared for still another meeting with the anthracite operators and miners whose differences precipitated a strike in the hard coal fields last Friday.

At two o'clock this afternoon the governor of Pennsylvania calls one more coal conference together and incidentally plans to launch his supreme political effort.

Having failed to stop the walkout, he will endeavor to bring the two factions together and make the stoppage of production of as short duration as possible.

Settlement—so far as Pinchot is concerned—will be reached on the basis laid down by him last week. This basis includes a ten per cent increase establishment of a basic eight hour day, recognition of the principle of collective bargaining and full recognition of the union with a semi check off.

This plan, in the governor's opinion, represents the best possible offer it is said. A spokesman close to the state executive has described as something "less than which the miner would accept more than which the operators would not offer."

Governor Pinchot is known to fear that the mediation of the strike will be taken out of his hands by official Washington. His political fortunes hang squarely on his success or failure. Prompt action is the only thing that will save him, he believes.

To forestall a transfer of mediation the governor's political advisors are sponsoring the statement that "no one could offer a better solution—upon no other plan could settlement be made."

COOLIDGE CONFERS WITH DRY CHIEF ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

Washington, Sept. 5.—President Coolidge moved to "learn conditions as they exist and what can be done for a proper enforcement of the prohibition law."

For almost two hours the president conferred at the white house with Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, who returned to his desk after an absence of five weeks on account of illness. It was the president's first official move looking toward a more rigid and effective enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

At the conclusion of the conference Haynes said the president expressed himself as well pleased with the reports he made to him of what had been done in the past and of what was being done now.

The conference centered around plans for bringing about a closer coordination between state and federal enforcement agencies, Haynes said. The president is not decided as yet just how this should be brought about. He is considering two suggestions, calling a conference of governors in Washington or issuing a proclamation appealing to the states to co-operate more fully with the federal authorities.

OHIO W. C. T. U. MEET IN STATE CAPITAL

Columbus, Sept. 5.—Ohio W. C. T. U. officials and delegates began their meetings this afternoon at Memorial hall. Sessions will be devoted to business and the election of officers. The sessions will end Thursday afternoon and all attention will be turned to the national convention of the W. C. T. U., which opens here Friday.

First of the series of spectacles scheduled is "The Scales of Justice" pageant play, to be enacted on the Memorial hall stage Thursday at 8 p. m., before national and state delegates and officials and the general public. The national body will begin its meetings at 9:30 a. m. Friday with the convention opener at Memorial hall, chief event of which is the annual address by Miss Anna Adams Gordon, national and world president.

The annual get-together banquet will be held Friday at 6:30 p. m. in the banquet room at the Elks' club. Miss Gordon will preside as toastmistress and responses will be made by Governor Donahay, Mayor Thomas and others.

DIRIGIBLE'S TRIAL TRIP SUCCESSFUL

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 5.—A voyage that will doubtless decide the future aerial program of the United States navy was made when the ZR-1, greatest of dirigibles, was launched on its maiden voyage. With gently puffing motors and without the slightest mishap the ZR-1 took the air here and started northward at 35 miles an hour.

It was a stirring sight as the ZR-1 made ready to cast off. A ground crew of 320 marines and sailors clung to the towlines that held the big ship to the earth, and at a signal they released her and she arose gracefully, turned her nose into the north wind and sailed away. The ZR-1 rose gradually and within 20 minutes had disappeared into a cloud bank. The trial trip lasted two hours and a successful landing was made at 8:30.

DANGER OF WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND GREECE APPARENTLY OVER

Editor's Note:—Danger of war between Greece and Italy is apparently over, according to the following telegram received in New York today by Bradford Merrill, general manager of the Hearst Newspapers.

(By wireless from the steamship Pierre Loti in the Mediterranean.)
By Hamilton Fish, Jr.
(On shipboard, Sept. 5.)—When I left Athens last night the warcloud seemed to have blown over in Greece, but it overhangs Belgrade pending the League of Nations decision.

The Greek foreign minister assured me Greece would not declare war under any circumstances unless the Greek mainland were invaded.

Greece is quiet. No warlike agitation is permitted. No military measures have been taken, except the withdrawal of the fleet behind the screen of mines near the Salamina forts.

But the Greek foreign office reports great excitement in Jugo Slavia

James E. Miller, of Chicago, formerly with a large New York corporation, has been selected by Secretary Hoover as Trade Commissioner in the Foreign Service of the Department of Commerce, and will be assigned to Calcutta, India.

RED CROSS RELIEF PLANS APPROVED BY GOVERNMENT

Washington, Sept. 5.—The government is putting all resources it properly can at work to provide relief for stricken Japan, it was announced at the White House.

The formulation of relief plans was the chief business before President Coolidge. The executive is in close touch with the state, war and navy departments, the shipping board, the Red Cross, the agencies through which the relief work will be carried on.

ITALIAN PREMIER'S PROPOSAL IS NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Geneva, Sept. 5.—Premier Mussolini's proposal to refer to the court of international justice at The Hague the question of the league of nations' competence to adjudicate the Greco-Italian dispute is not taken seriously here. There is nothing for the court to decide.

The covenant of the league of nations lays down explicitly the procedure to be followed. Both Italy and Greece voluntarily bound themselves by the treaty to the league. Greece has observed it; Italy has violated it and taken the law into her own hands, say delegates here.

If, however, Mussolini is anxious that The Hague court should formally declare that he has broken the covenant, the matter can be arranged without delay. The court is in session and can be called on by the council as a matter of urgency to deal with the matter immediately.

M. Politis, the Greek delegate, proposed to the council the appointment of representatives to supervise the inquiry which Greece is already conducting into the murder of General Tellini and his associates. He has also asked the council to appoint a commission of three high magistrates—one Italian, one Greek and one neutral—to sit at Geneva and decide the amount of indemnity Greece must pay and offers to deposit immediately in a Swiss bank the full amount of 50,000,000 lire demanded by Mussolini as a guarantee of the willingness of Greece to pay any sum the commission decides.

The session of the league assembly was marked by three disquieting incidents: First, the commission for legal and judicial matters of the league assembly elected former President Motto of Switzerland, the Swiss delegate, chairman of the subcommittee, over the distinguished Italian jurist, former Foreign Minister Scialoja; second, when the assembly elected its vice presidents the Italian delegation did not vote, and, third, six vice presidents were elected, but none of them were Italians. It is understood that none of them wished to serve. These straws in the wind may indicate trouble.

MURDER VICTIMS BURIED.
Cebu, O., Sept. 5.—Five thousand persons attended the funeral of Miss Olivia Tenwalde, her mother, Mrs. William Tenwalde, and her cousin, Lawrence Tenwalde, for whose murder Charles Shank, 40, farm laborer, is being sought. The three were shot to death Saturday night.

PARTIAL COMMUNICATION CONFIRMS REPORTS OF DESPERATE SITUATION

Loss of Life From Earthquake, Tidal Wave and Fire
Various Estimated Between 300,000 and 500,000—
Island Inundated and Populace Drowned

Shanghai, Sept. 5.—With the re-establishment of partial communication in Japan, the unprecedented disaster which has stunned the world and rendered millions of persons in the island empire homeless, with a loss of life, variously estimated at from 300,000 to 500,000, the catastrophe is being unfolded to an anxious world in dispatches today which are trickling through direct from the stricken country for the first time since the earthquake, conflagration and tidal wave laid waste to an area said to be 100 miles square.

The property damage is incalculable.

Twenty-four foreigners including several Americans are known to have lost their lives in the calamity at Yokohama. The number of dead in the capital city of Tokyo which is almost completely destroyed, is unknown. Earlier reports indicate the foreign quarter of the city was demolished with possible heavy loss of foreign lives.

Electric lights in the Tokyo wards of Honcho and Kishikawa were turned on for the first time in almost a week. Seven of the wards or suburbs were obliterated. A portion of the water supply system in the remaining wards has been repaired and these communities are being served. A Tokyo reporter of the Asahi, a newspaper, escaped in the height of the seismic disturbances at Yokohama, Sunday night and after three days and nights' travel by foot, reached Osaka today. He reported that all towns and villages between the two cities had been demolished with an appalling loss of life. These communities included: Hachioji, Atsugi, Hiratsuka, Kodzu and Tomiba.

Confirmation has been received that the populous island of Oshima, with its 50,000 souls has been inundated with not a trace remaining. Oshima was the largest island of the Izu group.

Two hundred and sixteen distinct earthquake shocks were felt at Yokohama and Tokyo last Saturday. Fifty-seven of the tremors were felt in a three-hour period, from 8 to 11 a. m.

Six warships, laden with immediate necessities, have reached Yokohama harbor from the Japanese naval station at Kure.

Only an approximate estimate of the loss of life will ever be known. In many cases the devastating fire entirely obliterated all trace of humanity. Thousands were drowned in the engulfing huge tidal wave.

Navigation in the harbor at Yokohama is impossible. The floor of the bay has been raised to such a degree as to make it unsafe for vessels. Lighthouses were washed away. Numerous craft, including the steamer Selma City, have been beached.

Communication with the cities and villages to the north and east of Tokyo has been cut off, but it is believed that more than 100,000 perished from the quake, fire and tidal wave in that section.

The damage in Tokyo alone was placed at $2,500,000,000.

The emperor, empress and prince regent are safe at Osaka, which has, temporarily, been made the capital.

Prince Shimidzu was crushed to death at Orso when a building collapsed. Prince Hirotsada was killed in the collapse of the Sasako tunnel. More than 600 others were killed when the full force of the quake brought the mountain down on the moving train.

Yokohama is still smoldering. The latest report from the greatest Japanese port is that only a few buildings remain.

Three million people are homeless and most of them are swarming in gigantic crowds to the open country beyond Fujiyama.

Embassies Wrecked.

Details that trickled into Osaka from the disaster area report that the buildings of the Chinese, American, French and other embassies in Tokyo were among the structures entirely wrecked by the fire, quake and terrific storm.

Two million homeless Japanese spread over the outskirts of Tokyo are reported to be in great suffering, with women and children, as usual, bearing the brunt of the misfortune. Thousands of dead are piled along the countryside rotting and decaying. Starvation and disease overshadow everything else, and desperate attempts are being made by the horror-stricken living to prevent the great disaster from being increased in its fatal consequences by the addition of pestilence and plague.

In spite of the ruthless burning of the dead an outbreak of pestilence is seriously threatening because lack of drinking water is forcing hundreds of thousands to quench their thirst with polluted river water.

Thousands are reported to have been badly wounded while trying to approach relief storehouses without regard to the warning threatened by barred bayonets. Hundreds of refugees were killed.

American Envoy Escaped.

American Ambassador Cyrus E. Woods and his family escaped death when their embassy crumbled to the ground as the terrible earthquake of Saturday vibrated death and destruction throughout Tokyo, Yokohama and thousands of surrounding villages. Among the cities destroyed were Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Odawara, Hachioji, Chiba, Kawaguchi, Kofu, Gotebama, Koyama, Mishima, Atsugi, Ito, Yokosuka and Shimoda.

Late reports from Yokohama and Tokyo state that at least 100 foreigners were killed in these cities. Japanese newspaper men who have arrived at Osaka confirm this detail and bring terrifying descriptions of what they saw in the doomed area. These newspaper men say that the British consul at Yokohama was killed.

When the Fujiyama spinning mills, housed in great modern buildings, collapsed in the quake not more than a dozen of the 8,000 employees escaped death.

A Japanese consular officer here said that the disaster will throw Japan back a generation, and the destruction of its naval bases and many of its naval craft will bring its position as a naval power far below many European nations that before the quake were able to muster far less naval strength than Japan.

An illustration of the terrific force of the earth convulsions that brought in its wake the terror of fire and tidal wave is the report from Tokyo that the mountains Kamoyama, No-gayama and Iseliyama, on the Izu peninsula, were practically leveled in the upheaval. Later dispatches confirmed the disappearance of Ochiyama, which is 25 miles due south of Tokyo and said that not a single soul had survived to tell of the swallowing up of the island with its 6,200 inhabitants.

At Tokyo the river Sumida, which flows through the city, was changed in its course by the quake and its waters were covered with bodies for several miles.

RAW SILK BURNED; LOSS 100 MILLIONS

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—The total loss of raw silk destroyed in the Yokohama fire will amount to more than $100,000,000, it is believed, according to advices received here from Osaka. The local office of the Ono Trading company, one of the largest silk exporters in Yokohama, has received a cablegram from their Osaka agent, saying that the main office and warehouse in Yokohama were destroyed by fire. One million dollars' worth of raw silk, which was stored in the warehouse awaiting shipment to America, was burned.

JAPAN'S PREMIER REPORTED MISSING

Manila, P. I., Sept. 5.—Premier Yamamoto of Japan is semi-officially reported here today as missing.

Premier Yamamoto had previously been reported as having safely taken flight from Tokyo. He was in conference with his cabinet at the naval club at the time Tokyo was burning and the premier and his official family narrowly escaped death when the building was destroyed.

DISTRIBUTE PIECES OF RELIGIOUS NEWS

Three thousand four hundred and eighty-eight pieces of religious literature distributed in four months time is the record made by Mrs. A. J. Chatfield, who with the assistance of two little girls in the East End Etta and Lillie Ward, during the months of May, June, July and August gave out that amount of Sunday School and other church papers. The papers were done up in bundles of four each and the workers distributed eight hundred and seventy-two of the bundles to persons who would otherwise have been without religious reading matter.

These workers are making a plea for Bibles to distribute in homes where they have no Bibles. Persons having Bibles that they can donate to this cause are asked to leave them at the Social Service League rooms where Mrs. Chatfield and her helpers will get them and distribute them in homes where they will be greatly appreciated.

NO REST—NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Xenia people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. David Pohl, 751 W. Second St., Xenia, gave the following statement Aug. 2, 1917: "I suffered with lame back, but the most annoying symptoms was the irregular action of my kidneys. I felt languid when I arose in the morning and it seemed I never could get any rest. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Douglas' Drug Store, and they helped me immediately and the second box cured me entirely."

On Aug. 15, 1921, Mrs. Pohl said: "I am glad to again say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the one reliable kidney remedy that cured me of kidney trouble some years ago. I have had no further occasion to use Doan's but I am glad to confirm the statement I gave in 1917 in behalf of this remedy."

Doors of the Xenia Community Recreation Association headquarters on East Main Street were closed Wednesday for the winter.

Headquarters of the association were maintained in the room formerly occupied by the Witham grocery through the courtesy of the owner, E. S. Davidson, since June, when the organization was started.

Business pertaining to the organization should be transacted with the officers during the winter, E. M. Woodward, T. H. Zell, or the Rev. W. H. Tilford. Bursner as executive secretary and assisted in the staging of the pageant of Xenia, has concluded her term of service with the association.

Furnish, used in the headquarters was loaned to the association by the public schools and has been returned to school authorities. The association will continue to meet during the winter and within a few weeks hope to be able to present plans for a fall and winter program.

CASE IS DROPPED

The case against Warren Stephens who was held in Columbus Saturday under $300 bond on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to Morris Lichtenstein, of Columbus, has been dropped, when Lichtenstein refused to prosecute, according to Stephens, now in Xenia.

According to Stephens the charge against him was the result of an accident he had had with Lichtenstein's car when he was taking it to be washed, on instructions from the owner. He said he took it to a garage for repairs without notifying Lichtenstein who later reported to police that his car had not been returned. The case was dropped Monday according to Stephens, when Lichtenstein learned the circumstances and exonerated Stephens of the charge.

Appetite Gone?

A tempting, delicious looking meal—all the choicest morsels from a well stocked pantry. The fragrant aroma of all these good things failing to put a keen edge on your appetite—failing to arouse, in any degree, a hardy relish for the food so attractively placed before you. Why? Scores of men and women are faced with the same misfortune. After a day of toil—when they are tired—when good things to eat should be ravishly sought to recharge their vitality and fit them for play time—their stomachs turn. They are worn down, played out. Food has no appeal. To them it is sickening. The aroma of appetizing things nauseates them.

Red blood cells are missing. Red blood which should be coursing through your veins strengthening your vitality—adding to your strength—keeping you healthy and fit—is not to be found.

WOULD SHUT DOWN GAS WORKS

"My stomach has been so filled with gas for the last three years that I felt I could pretty nearly supply our town. I also had frequent pains in right side in region of the appendix. Doctor's didn't help much. One day my neighbor told me about what May's Wonderful Remedy had done for him and I got a bottle of our druggist. I can say that it will do all and more than you claim for it." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all my stomach liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere. adv

THE LESSON OF THE PASSING OF PRESIDENT HARDING.

The news of President Harding's death was telegraphed and telephoned to Calvin Coolidge, the Vice President, as quickly as possible. He was at the little country home of his father up in Vermont when the tragic word reached him. He took the oath of office as President of the republic at once—by lamp light, in early morning, his own father, a notary public, administering the solemn obligation. A remarkable transition. The President dead. The new President sworn in without delay. No stop in the functioning of government such as ours. The captain of the Ship of State, stricken at the wheel, gave way to the succeeding helmsman. The ship shuddered some at this sudden release of the hand at the wheel, but in its course it deviated not a fraction of a point, for another hand, equal to the emergency, took hold at once. Is not this but another sign of union indissoluble?

The passing of Warren Harding, the ceremonious state funeral, the contrasting simple rites at the last resting place among his townfolk in Marion, Ohio—these found America in union of common grief; witnessed the processes of government unstopped, the machinery of the national organism functioning with precision and with efficiency. A nation that can so mobilize its grief and its patriotism and its practical wisdom is a strong nation.

WE WILL STICK TO THE GOLD STANDARD.

Several bills were introduced in the last Congress (and will be reintroduced in the next) authorizing and directing the Treasury to issue paper money "to meet the business demands of the business world, and distribute it directly to the people." It is proposed to base this paper money on the wealth of the United States or its enormous resources, or inexhaustible riches all about us.

Look at Germany, a country of vast resources and wealth, probably amounting to 300,000,000,000 gold marks. Today more than forty-three trillion paper marks have been issued, several times the wealth of Germany on a gold basis; and the paper mark is worth nothing practically.

Instead of helping business it has killed business. Instead of helping the wage earner it has injured him irreparably. Confidence is gone, prices are fantastic and the whole economic and financial machinery is ruined.

Does any sane person want the United States to enter upon a similar experiment?

The cause of the currency inflation in Germany may be doubtful, but the fact of its existence and consequences is painfully apparent.

OBEEDIENCE TO WILL OF MAJORITY.

The faith of our people in the stability and permanence of their institutions was like their faith in the eternal course of nature. Peace, liberty and personal security were blessings as common and universal as sunshine and showers and fruitful seasons; and all sprang from a single source, the principle declared in the Pilgrim covenant of 1620, that all owed due submission and obedience to the lawfully expressed will of the majority. This is not one of the doctrines of our political system, it is the system itself. It is our political firmament, in which all other truths are set, as stars in the heaven. It is the encasing air, the breath of the nation's life.—James A. Garfield.

THE HEART OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

When Lincoln laid down the tools of public service and started on his long, last adventure, the heart of the American people throbbed in sympathetic sorrow. It was the great heart of the union.

When Garfield was promoted to higher spheres of activity and left a weeping nation, the heart of America had faith in the republic, and trusted in Providence.

When Roosevelt started on his last journey of discovery, the heart-throb of a bereaved people was the call to patriotism and Americanism.

When the call to arms came and the mighty western republic entered the World War to end it, the heart of the American people swelled with national pride.

When the late President Harding was stricken, all factions, all groups, all parties, forgot their differences and stood with bowed heads and tear-dimmed eyes learning the lesson of personal sacrifice for the welfare of all.

In every great national crisis, in every calamity, the heart of the American people has stoutly and bravely stood the test.

These events prove that the American democracy within a republic is no longer an experiment, despite evidences and claims to the contrary.

Whenever danger signals are raised, giving warning of an approaching social or political storm (by some called a revolution), the great heart of the American people rises in defense of the everlasting principles and foundations of the nation.

"I have tried the experiment of keeping bottled home-made fruit drinks on ice, this summer," writes a Housekeeper Reader, "and it has been such a pleasure to offer a feed drink and a home-made cookie to anyone who came up on my porch. Now I am trying to think of dainty sandwiches or fancy cookies, that I could serve with a cup of tea, later on, when it is too cool to sit on the porch comfortably. Can you help me?"

It is a pleasure to help anyone as hospitable as this Reader. Friend. It is nice to be able to offer the "stranger within our gates" a cup of tea and a cookie. Somehow friendship ripens more easily over the teacups. My idea of a really enjoyable afternoon in Fall or Winter is to entertain some genial Housekeeper Friend before an open fire, with a tea-cart beside me and perhaps a bit of fancywork at hand, to pick up as we chat. The following dainties are all suitable for such informal entertaining:

Maple Marguerites: Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, add three tablespoons of crushed maple sugar, and whip again till very stiff. Their mix in one cup of either walnut meats or roasted peanuts finely chopped, and spread this mixture on small unsweetened crackers (saltines will do). Slip the crackers into a slow oven, to bake until the nutmegine is brown. Serve cold.
Cocoanut Sandwiches: Melt one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoons of sugar, and cool. Then add two tablespoons of grated cocoanut, the juice of one lemon, and two well-beaten eggs. Let this mixture boil up once or twice, over moderate heat, then cool before spreading on thin, crustless slices of bread.

COSTS MORE THAN LINIMENT. WHY?

For the same reason that gold costs more than brass, that diamonds cost more than glass, ENARCO costs more than liniment—because, as doctors say, it is "miles ahead of liniment." One nurse writes, "I would rather have a few drops of Enarco than a whole quart of liniment."

Fine for aches and pains—money back if it fails. A secret from Japan.

Orange Sandwiches: Put one cup of confectioners' sugar into a bowl and add only just enough sweet milk to form a stiff paste. Now melt one heaping tablespoon of butter and add this. Season with the grated rind of two oranges. (Lemon rind may be used in the same way.) Spread on thin slices of graham bread.

Marshmallow Dainties: Put a marshmallow between two salty, square crackers (or any kind of small, unsweetened cracker) and sprinkle the top of the upper cracker with a little granulated sugar mixed with a little ground cinnamon. Slip these cracker-sandwiches into a very hot oven and leave them there only long enough for the sugar to melt slightly and for the marshmallow to become soft enough to begin to run; press the hot crackers together a little, and cool before serving.

GIVING

When friendly hands come in and bring To me some kindly offering. It pleases me some day to take. A gift to them for friendship's sake.

I jump with joy when they make known A trinket they would like to own; And with that gift to them I go My gratitude and love to show.

Life daily plays the friend to me, It gives me splendors I may see, The stars at night, the morning sun, The playground where the children run.

It gives me laughter through the years, Strength for my task and faith for tears, Love at my hearth, and all I own—

A new day when today has flown.

Then shall I, taking while I live So much from life, not also give A little of myself in turn, That life my gratitude may learn?

Shall I take all, and day by day Give nothing back along the way? Shall naught of service come from me That life on earth may happier be?

Or shall I not rejoice to find Some little need for being kind, And seize the chance this gift to make To one from whom so much I take?

That heart is cold and dull as stone Where gratitude is never known, And thoughtless he who while he lives Takes all from life, but nothing gives.

Today's Talk

Life can come to us with little of charm or inspiration unless we have first learned the vital points about its living.

We pass through periods. But as we age in learning, we stand more erect, feel deeper, and in this sobered state stand our ground against the odds of life and face the large task—that of taking on intelligence of heart and soul.

How small the little temptations of reward in intrinsic value, when placed beside the results of a developed experience!

Learn first to live—and all the beauties of ambition and striving will blossom at your feet.

Wealth and fame and glory are the prizes of little tasks. The large task of living desires no such gifts.

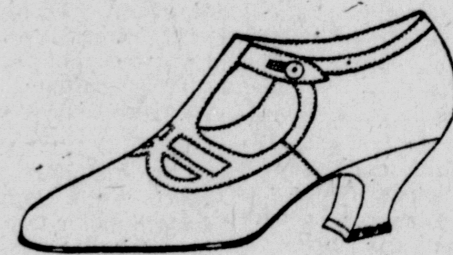

The large task itself is a gift—and one that warms the conscious being and gives to it its breath and ruddy glow.

I am looking into the sunken face of Lincoln which hangs upon my wall beside my desk. I see the large task in him, that looms with time—a thing as immortal as time itself, for it has become a part of time.

Every effort that you make immediately melts into some phase of conscious life and fits you that much better to cope with things now unrevealed. Bear strong. Mount fear. Believe.

The large task is the one that stamps finality upon your soul.

Xenia City Public Schools To Open Monday, September 10, For Fall Term

Xenia City public grade and high schools will open September 10, at eight o'clock in the morning according to announcement of C. A. Waltz, Superintendent.

A record enrollment is expected in line with the annual increase in attendance recorded in recent years. Last year more than 2,000 were enrolled. With the beginning of the school year Xenia's new Central High School building will be put in use for the first time and the old building, which has housed high school students since 1881 will be practically abandoned.

Abandonment of the old building and inauguration for use of the new structure has resulted in a re-assignment of students in what is known as the central school district, including the transfer of McKinley Junior High School established in the McKinley Building, West Market Street, to the new Central High School.

Children of the first grade of the central district will be located in the kindergarten room in the northeast corner of the ground floor of the old Central building which will be the room in use. Pupils of the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the central district will attend school at the McKinley Building. Pupils of the Junior High School will attend the new Central High building, where they will occupy the second and third floors of the west side of the building. The school will continue under the principalship of Miss May Harper, as heretofore.

All high school students will attend school at the new building. There will be no changes made in the Lincoln, Orient Hill, McKinley and Spring Hill school districts. Pupils of the Opportunity School will hold their classes in the Central Annex Building, East Church Street.

School will open at all buildings at eight o'clock in the morning under a new time schedule to be put in effect this year by Supt. Waltz. The noon dismissal will be at 11:30 o'clock and school will re-convene at 12:45 o'clock, the afternoon session closing at 3:45 o'clock in all formally at 3:45 o'clock in all schools. Teachers are to report at their respective buildings not later than 7:45 in the morning. Pupils are not supposed to be on the school grounds before 7:45 o'clock in the morning and teachers will not be responsible for pupils on the grounds before that time. Pupils not in their rooms by eight o'clock will be counted tardy.

The same method of classifying pupils in the various grades in divisions A, B and C was in use last year and will be continued. The point system will also be used in all grades of the elementary and secondary schools. Superintendent Waltz is urging parents to co-operate with the schools in securing excellent school work, punctuality and attendance, and requesting that they also limit requests for excuses from school for any portion of the day to cases of absolute necessity such as sickness. Appointments with physicians, dentists, music teachers or for similar reasons should be arranged for Saturday or after school hours, he suggests. High school pupils will not be excused to work during school hours. Parents are also asked to provide suitable conditions for a reasonable amount of home study for pupils in all grades above the third.

Because there is a nine months or 36 weeks school term in force here, school authorities have divided the term into four quarters of nine weeks each. At the close of each quarter the pupils report cards will be sent home to parents or guardians. About the middle of each quarter commendation and deficiency slips will be sent home, thus giving parents a report on pupils' progress about once a month. Parents are urged to keep in touch with the school work of their children through visitation at the school and conference with the teacher.

All complaints and criticisms should be carried directly to the superintendent of schools according to

Superintendent Waltz. Teachers are not to be interrupted during school hours by parents who are dissatisfied with their children's work. If there is dissatisfaction or criticism the proper place to take it is to the superintendent's office his hours being from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock in the morning and from three to five o'clock in the afternoon. All business pertaining to school should be transacted between those hours the remaining time the superintendent is visiting the classrooms of the teachers.

There will be a general teachers' meeting held Saturday morning Sept. 8, at ten o'clock in the auditorium of the new Central High School, according to Superintendent Waltz. Teachers will meet with their principals at the various buildings where they are to teach at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Teachers who do not possess State Life Teaching certificates those who do not hold other than Xenia City Certificates and those whose certificates expire this September will be required to meet with the Xenia City Board of School Examiners Friday, September 7, at nine o'clock in the morning for the purpose of taking the examination for a certificate.

These teachers are expected to meet at the office of Supt. Waltz, ground floor of the new building. The board of examiners is composed of Miss Anna Morrow, president, Harper C. Pendry and C. A. Waltz.

PAUSE AND REFLECT

When Something is Offered For Nothing. Or Where an Extra Profit is Offered Above What is Economically Safe.

More than a hundred years have passed since Benjamin Franklin penned this warning. Yet, what a good motto it is today.

There are still with us those who would have us forget that value received and price paid must always balance. In the long run, however, people don't forget. We are building for the future. Conservatism, careful judgment and careful statement were valued yesterday, are valued today and will be valued tomorrow.

COLUMBUS PIKE READY IN WEEK

The newly completed Columbus pike will be opened for traffic in about a week, according to W. P. McKay, deputy county surveyor.

J. W. Weeks, contractor, from Dayton, has concluded the new macadam paving from the Xenia corporation line to Wilberforce, but authorities are awaiting until the concrete of a new bridge about two and one-half miles from Xenia has had time to set properly. The bridge has been completed two weeks and the usual custom is to leave them three weeks before traffic is permitted.

Completion of the paving on the Xenia and of the pike furnished a completely paved section through to Cedarville.

PAUSE AND REFLECT

When Something is Offered For Nothing. Or Where an Extra Profit is Offered Above What is Economically Safe.

More than a hundred years have passed since Benjamin Franklin penned this warning. Yet, what a good motto it is today.

There are still with us those who would have us forget that value received and price paid must always balance. In the long run, however, people don't forget. We are building for the future. Conservatism, careful judgment and careful statement were valued yesterday, are valued today and will be valued tomorrow.

SMALL DONATIONS FOR JAPAN RELIEF SOUGHT LOCALLY

Small contributions will be just as acceptable as large donations according to officials of Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross in its campaign to raise relief funds for the suffering people of stricken Japan.

The chapter here is now receiving contributions for the purpose designated as the Japanese Relief Fund, and urges that contributions be turned in or mailed in at once to the headquarters in the Court House.

No quota has been set for Greene County, but a generous response is expected to relieve the suffering of the Japanese and many Americans caught in the earthquake, fire and flood disasters. Montgomery has set $30,000 as a quota, while Columbus and Franklin County will raise $20,000; Cincinnati and Hamilton County, $100,000 and Cleveland and Cuyahoga County, $160,000.

Checks should be made out to the Greene County Red Cross.

Rev. W. H. Tiltford, chairman of the Greene County Chapter Wednesday, received a telegram from Governor Donahay relative to relief donations and called attention to a proclamation he has issued. The wire reads:

"Am forwarding proclamation, Japanese relief. Please tell newspapers. Subscriptions may be mailed to you as agent of the Red Cross."

(Signed) Vic Donahay.

Styles BY LENORE

Velours de laine is a soft, woody shade of brown, combines with seal to make this charmingly youthful suit, which indicates which way the wind will blow in young women's tailors. At least one of the ways. For no little importance is given to the slender three-quarter length coat introduced in Paris, and gray furs, notably squirrel, are stressed as trimmings. Many young women, however, has a preference for the hipline type of coat, which with the snug band fastening frequently gives a buoyant swing to the figure not possible with a longer coat.

Skirts are fairly short for daytime wear. The wrap-around movement is conspicuous, hemlines are frequently uneven, often marked by a point in the front, as in the model illustrated; and where there are panels in the back, they are often longer than the skirt. Fur edgings are also to be noted.

In addition to velour de laine, broadcloth and ribbed fabrics are in favor, and the French models are frequently brightened with embroidery or a slender stitching of dull gold.

Applied, for example, in the same manner as the self-cording in the suit sketched above. Save the clipper.

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

By Jane Phelps
SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

13 year old Ruby Atkins marries Paul Norwood, counter to the wishes of her parents and brother, Tom. Norwood, at 25, has dissipated a small fortune and has no particular occupation. He is something of a dilettante but provides his wife with a good home, maid and car. He also maintains bachelor rooms in town where he claims to spend time working on a novel that he is writing.

Ruby makes friends, among them Evelyn Markham and her husband. A year after their marriage little Joan is born. She is not welcomed by Paul who grumbles continually about expenses but refuses to retrench. His novel is also turned down by the publishers. Tom, visiting his sister, discovers that he gambles. Ruby overhears. Dave Logan, a questionable friend of Paul's promises to secure Norwood a position.

Chapter XIX

I remained on the porch until Paul returned. I was excited, longed to talk to him about Logan's offer. Was it possible he had so much influence that he could guarantee Paul a position? Evelyn surely was mistaken in her idea of the man. He was kind, at least. Yet as the thought flashed through my mind I also felt a return of the repugnance I felt for him; and I shuddered as I recalled the pressure of his hand when he left, the look in his eyes as he bent them upon me. I tried to laugh at my folly in thinking he meant anything—me, the wife of his friend, the mother of two children, but I could not divest myself of the feeling there had been meaning in his glances.

"He's so used to ogling women he can't help it," I finally said aloud, just as Paul appeared.

"Do you really think you will get that position?" I asked breathlessly, as he threw himself into a chair near me.

"If I want it!" he answered shortly.

"If you want it!" I repeated.

"What do you mean?" You know we are awfully in debt, have no money. How can you talk that way?"

"I disapprove of your meddling in my affairs. Fortunately it did no harm with Logan; he seemed to take quite a fancy to you. But don't make it a precedent. I'm quite capable yet of attending to my own business without your help."

"I didn't mean to meddle, Paul," I replied, hoping to placate him, "but I have been so anxious. I can't believe yet such a position will come so easily."

"Nonsense! Logan knows men of my kind aren't easy to find. He's probably got some axe to grind with the firm, wants to make himself solid by getting them a superior man."

Oh, the boundless egotism of that speech! How it made me writhe.

"You will surely take it—if it is offered?" I asked after a moment.

"Yes, I think so. I will try it for a time anyway if the salary is big enough."

"Even if it isn't as large as you think you should get do take it, Paul. You will have to learn the business you know."

"I probably know more about it than anyone they have at that," he replied, yawning. "Well, I'm going to turn in. I have to meet Logan at 10 o'clock. If I take the position, he stopped to say, 'they will have to understand right from the beginning that I won't be tied down to hours. I'm no office boy to work by the clock.'"

I sat on the porch for some time longer. Would Paul be able to fill the position if he secured it? Would any business firm stand for his egotistical talk, his high opinion of himself, and what was his due? I felt very doubtful. But perhaps I was worrying unnecessarily. Logan had said a man of Paul's sort was sure to succeed. So with an unspoken prayer on my lips I too went to bed.

I arose early and had a good breakfast ready for Paul. He dwaddled so over it I was afraid he'd miss his train.

"What if I do?" he said when I suggested he hurry. "There's another one in half an hour."

"But that would make you late for your appointment," I urged. "I told you last night I wasn't an office boy, that I didn't intend to work by the clock. Do stop nagging and let me eat in peace."

I said no more, but when Joan came in and asked to walk to the station with him I sent her quickly out of the room. She would be sure to delay him.

Finally he finished and deliberately left the house. I watched him go sauntering down the street, then with eyes on the clock I listened for the train. It was five minutes late. He had been in time after all, I had had my worry for nothing.

All day I was restless, nervous. Why hadn't I asked him to telephone me if he were successful in obtaining the position?

"I must be patient, I'll know at 6 o'clock," I said aloud.

"What will you know, Mother?" Joan asked.

"Something that will either make me happy or sad," I replied evasively.

Tomorrow—Paul Secures The Position.

MILLIONS IN JAPAN ARE HOMELESS OVER SCORE OF FOREIGNERS PERISH

FIRST LIST OF REPORTED DEAD IN JAPAN GIVEN

Americans Among Victims of Disaster Which Swept Nation

Washington, Sept. 5.—No Americans are believed to have lost their lives in Tokyo although it is reported that some were killed in Yokohama. Cyrus E. Woods, American ambassador to Japan, cabled Acting Secretary of State Phillips today.

Woods estimated the total dead in the city of Tokyo at 10,000, a figure far below previous unofficial estimates of the past two days.

The situation in Yokohama, the city hardest hit by the earthquake, was described as "exceedingly serious," but the ambassador said it was still impossible to tell how many Americans had been killed or injured.

The food situation remains acute throughout the stricken area despite the arrival of some ships with supplies.

Woods made another urgent request that supplies be rushed from the Philippines and he was advised this morning by cable and wireless from the state department that ships were leaving Manila today with food, medical equipment and other material.

Earl Dickober, the American consulate Kobs, cabled official confirmation of the death of Paul F. Jenks, the American vice consul at Yokohama. His home was in Brooklyn, N. Y.

HORSE FALLS ON IRON FENCE CAUSING DEATH

A horse belonging to John Robinson, South Galloway Street, was killed when it fell and impaled itself on the sharp pickets of an iron fence round the home of Dr. George Davis, Main and Collier Streets, Tuesday night.

The horse is said to have been sick. When it ran away an attempt was made to catch it, but the animal slipped on the wet sidewalk and fell, catching on the top of the fence, where the iron pickets pierced the neck. The horse died almost instantly.

FUNERAL IS THURSDAY

The child died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital Monday evening from injuries he received when struck by a White Line car at Greencastle and Germantown streets Monday afternoon. Burial will be made in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Geiger is a former Xenian.

FEES IS SPEAKER

U. S. Senator S. D. Fess of Yellow Springs was the principal speaker at the luncheon that marked the opening of winter season activities of the Triangle Club at Dayton, Wednesday.

Dr. Fess spoke on the subject "Into the Future," discussing the coal strike situation, international relations and general business conditions at home with legislation that may be brought before Congress at the next session.

WHERE AMERICAN TOURISTS PLUNGED TO DEATH

Twenty-three persons, several of them Americans, were killed when a motor omnibus plunged down this 250-foot-deep ravine near Saint-Souver-Les. Napoleon Bridge, in the Pyrenees, in France. Seven others were seriously injured. The driver of the omnibus swerved to avoid hitting a woman emerging from the tunnel. There have been several other fatal automobile accidents since then in the immediate vicinity.

PINCHOT FIGHTING WITH BACK AGAINST WALL IN COAL ISSUE

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 5.—Fighting with his back to the wall, Governor Gifford Pinchot today prepared for still another meeting with the anthracite operators and miners whose differences precipitated a strike in the hard coal fields last Friday.

At two o'clock this afternoon the governor of Pennsylvania calls one more coal conference together and incidentally plans to launch his supreme political effort.

Having failed to stop the walkout, he will endeavor to bring the two factions together and make the stoppage of production of as short duration as possible.

Settlement—so far as Pinchot is concerned—will be reached on the basis laid down by him last week. This basis includes a ten per cent increase establishment of a basic eight hour day, recognition of the principle of collective bargaining and full recognition of the union with a semi check off.

This plan, in the governor's opinion, represents the best possible offer it is said. A spokesman close to the state executive has described as something "less than which the miners would accept more than which the operators would not offer."

Governor Pinchot is known to fear that the mediation of the strike will be taken out of his hands by official Washington. His political fortunes hang squarely on his success or failure. Prompt action is the only thing that will save him, he believes.

To forestall a transfer of mediation the governor's political advisors are sponsoring the statement that "no one could offer a better solution—up on no other plan could settlement be made."

DANGER OF WAR BETWEEN ITALY AND GREECE APPARENTLY OVER

Editor's Note:—Danger of war between Greece and Italy is apparently over, according to the following radio-gram received in New York today by Bradford Merrill, general manager of the Hearst Newspapers.

(On shipboard, Sept. 5.)—When I left Athens last night the warcloud seemed to have blown over in Greece, but it overhangs Belgrade pending the League of Nations decision.

The Greek foreign minister assured me Greece would not declare war under any circumstances unless the Greek mainland were invaded.

Greece is quiet. No warlike agitation is permitted. No military measures have been taken, except the withdrawal of the fleet behind the screen of mines near the Salamina forts.

But the Greek foreign office reports great excitement in Jugo Slavia where the situation is evidently serious.

It develops that the Italian officials who were delimiting the Greek-Albanian frontier, were stabbed, in their beds and not killed by rifle fire.

Hoover Names Miller Trade Commissioner

(By wireless from the steamship Pierre Loti in the Mediterranean.)

By Hamilton Fish, Jr.

Washington, Sept. 5.—The government is putting all resources it properly can at work to provide relief for stricken Japan, it was announced at the White House.

The formulation of relief plans was the chief business before President Coolidge. The executive is in close touch with the state, war and navy departments, the shipping board, the Red Cross, the agencies through which the relief work will be carried on.

An outstanding development was the approval by the president of plans of the Red Cross immediately to launch a nationwide drive for a $5,000,000 relief fund. The plans were laid before the president by Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth, officers of the Red Cross and vice-chairman Fieser, of that organization.

Telegrams have gone to every Red Cross chapter, to start the fund raising campaign. There will be state, city and town quotas allotted after the manner of the war drives.

Secretary of War Weeks went over with the president plans of the war department to send relief supplies to Japan. The transports Meigs and Merrick, with a combined carrying capacity of 16,000 tons, have been ordered to proceed from Manila with all possible speed carrying tents, cots, medical supplies, food, etc. General Reid is in charge of this expedition.

The navy department already is rushing relief from Chefoo, China, under command of Rear Admiral Anderson. Likewise the shipping board has ordered vessels within one day of Tokyo to proceed there and others in Asiatic waters to report to Admiral Anderson for instruction.

The Red Cross relief plans, before being submitted to President Coolidge, were laid before Ambassador Hanihara of Japan, who approved them and expressed the appreciation of his government for the tender of assistance to his people.

At the White House, a spokesman for President Coolidge characterized the Japanese calamity as without a parallel in world history, declaring that there had been a greater loss of life and destruction of property than mankind had ever before known. It was stated for the president that the people of the United States and the government want to give every possible assistance and relief to the stricken nation across the Pacific, and in so doing are performing a service that evidences the friendship of America for Japan.

GOVERNOR CALLS ON OHIOANS TO HELP

Columbus, O., Sept. 5.—A proclamation calling upon Ohioans to contribute to the $5,000,000 fund being raised throughout the United States by the American Red Cross with which to afford relief to stricken Japan, was issued today by Governor Donahey, Ohio's quota has not been determined, it was stated.

Contributors are requested to make their payments to officials of the local Red Cross Chapter throughout the state.

ITALIAN PREMIER'S PROPOSAL IS NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY

Geneva, Sept. 5.—Premier Mussolini's proposal to refer to the court of international justice at The Hague the question of the league of nation's competence to adjudicate the Greco-Italian dispute is not taken seriously here. There is nothing for the court to decide.

The covenant of the league of nations lays down explicitly the procedure to be followed. Both Italy and Greece voluntarily bound themselves by the treaty to the league. Greece has observed it; Italy has violated it and taken the law into her own hands, say delegates here.

If, however, Mussolini is anxious that The Hague court should formally declare that he has broken the covenant, the matter can be arranged without delay. The court is in session and can be called on by the council as a matter of urgency to deal with the matter immediately.

M. Politis, the Greek delegate, proposed to the council the appointment of representatives to supervise the inquiry which Greece is already conducting into the murder of General Tellini and his associates. He has also asked the council to appoint a commission of three high magistrates—one Italian, one Greek and one neutral—to sit at Geneva and decide the amount of indemnity Greece must pay and offers to deposit immediately in a Swiss bank the full amount of 50,000,000 lire demanded by Mussolini as a guarantee of the willingness of Greece to pay any sum the commission decides.

The session of the league assembly was marked by three disquieting incidents: First, the commission for legal and judicial matters of the league assembly elected former President Motto of Switzerland, the Swiss delegate, chairman of the subcommittee, over the distinguished Italian jurist, former Foreign Minister Scialoja; second, when the assembly elected its vice presidents the Italian delegation did not vote, and third, six vice presidents were elected, but none of them were Italians. It is understood that none of them wished to serve. These straw men in the wind may indicate trouble.

MURDER VICTIMS BURIED.

Genoa, O., Sept. 5.—Five thousand persons attended the funeral of Miss Olivia Tenwalde, her mother, Mrs. William Tenwalde, and her cousin, Lawrence Tenwalde, for whose murder Charles Shank, 40, farm laborer, is being sought. The three were shot to death Saturday night.

PARTIAL COMMUNICATION CONFIRMS REPORTS OF DESPERATE SITUATION

Loss of Life From Earthquake, Tidal Wave and Fire
Various Estimated Between 300,000 and 500,000—
Island Inundated and Populace Drowned

Shanghai, Sept. 5.—With the re-establishment of partial communication in Japan, the unprecedented disaster which has stunned the world and rendered millions of persons in the island empire homeless, with a loss of life, variously estimated at from 300,000 to 500,000, the catastrophe is being unfolded to an anxious world in dispatches today which are trickling through direct from the stricken country for the first time since the earthquake, conflagration and tidal wave laid waste to an area said to be 100 miles square.

The property damage is incalculable.

Twenty-four foreigners including several Americans are known to have lost their lives in the calamity at Yokohama. The number of dead in the capital city of Tokyo which is almost completely destroyed, is unknown. Earlier reports indicate the foreign quarter of the city was demolished with possible heavy loss of foreign lives.

Electric lights in the Tokyo wards of Honjo and Kishikawa were turned on for the first time in almost a week. Seven of the wards or suburbs were obliterated. A portion of the water supply system in the remaining wards has been repaired and these communities are being served. A Tokyo reporter of the Asahi, a newspaper, escaped in the height of the seismic disturbances at Yokohama, Sunday night and after three days and nights travel by foot, reached Osaka today. He reported that all towns and villages between the two cities had been demolished with an appalling loss of life. These communities included—Hachioji, Atsuki, Hiratsuka, Kodzu and Totsuka.

Confirmation has been received that the populous island of Oshima, with its 50,000 souls has been inundated with not a trace remaining. Oshima was the largest island of the Izu group.

Two hundred and sixteen distinct earthquake shocks were felt at Yokohama and Tokyo last Saturday. Fifty-seven of the tremors were felt in a three-hour period, from 8 to 11 a. m.

Six warships, laden with immediate necessities, have reached Yokohama harbor from the Japanese naval station at Kure.

Only an approximate estimate of the loss of life will ever be known. In many cases the devastating fire entirely obliterated all trace of humanity. Thousands were drowned in the engulfing huge tidal wave.

Navigation in the harbor at Yokohama is impossible. The floor of the bay has been raised to such a degree as to make it unsafe for vessels. Lighthouses were washed away. Numerous craft, including the steamer Selma City, have been beached.

Communication with the cities and villages to the north and east of Tokyo has been cut off, but it is believed that more than 100,000 perished from the quake, fire and tidal wave in that section.

The damage in Tokyo alone was placed at $2,500,000,000.

The emperor, empress and prince regent are safe at Osaka, which has, temporarily, been made the capital.

Prince Shimidzu was crushed to death at Oiso when a building collapsed. Earlier reports said he was killed in the collapse of the Sasako tunnel. More than 600 others were killed when the full force of the quake brought the mountain down on the moving train.

Yokohama is still smoldering. The latest report from the greatest Japanese port is that only a few buildings remain.

Three million people are homeless and most of them are swarming in gigantic crowds to the open country beyond Fujiyama.

Embassies Wrecked.

Details that trickled into Osaka from the disaster area report that the buildings of the Chinese, American, French and other embassies in Tokyo were among the structures entirely wrecked by the fire, quake and terrific storm.

Two million homeless Japanese spread over the outskirts of Tokyo are reported to be in great suffering, with women and children, as usual, bearing the brunt of the misfortune. Thousands of dead are piled along the countryside rotting and decaying. Starvation and disease overshadow everything else, and desperate attempts are being made by the horror-stricken living to prevent the great disaster from being increased in its fatal consequences by the addition of pestilence and plague.

In spite of the ruthless burning of the dead an outbreak of pestilence is seriously threatening because lack of drinking water is forcing hundreds of thousands to quench their thirst with polluted river water.

Thousands are reported to have been badly wounded while trying to approach relief storehouses without regard to the warning threatened by barred bayonets. Hundreds of refugees were killed.

RAW SILK BURNED; LOSS 100 MILLIONS

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—The total loss of raw silk destroyed in the Yokohama fire will amount to more than $100,000,000, it is believed, according to advices received here from Osaka. The local office of the Ono Trading Company, one of the largest silk exporters in Yokohama, has received a cablegram from their Osaka agent, saying that the main office and warehouse in Yokohama were destroyed by fire. One million dollars' worth of raw silk, which was stored in the warehouse awaiting shipment to America, was burned.

JAPAN'S PREMIER REPORTED MISSING

Manila, P. I., Sept. 5.—Premier Yamamoto of Japan is semi-officially reported here today as missing.

Premier Yamamoto had previously been reported as having safely taken flight from Tokyo. He was in conference with his cabinet at the naval club at the time Tokyo was burning and the premier and his official family narrowly escaped death when the building was destroyed.

DISTRIBUTE PIECES OF RELIGIOUS NEWS

Three thousand four hundred and eighty-eight pieces of religious literature distributed in four months time is the record made by Mrs. A. J. Chatfield, who with the assistance of two little girls in the East End Etta and Lillie Ward, during the months of May, June, July and August gave out that amount of Sunday School and other church papers. The papers were done up in bundles of four each and the workers distributed eight hundred and seventy-two of the bundles to persons who would otherwise have been without religious reading matter.

These workers are making a plea for Bibles to distribute in homes where they have no Bibles. Persons having Bibles that they can donate to this cause are asked to leave them at the Social Service League rooms where Mrs. Chatfield and her helpers will get them and distribute them in homes where they will be greatly appreciated.

NO REST—NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Xenia people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. David Pohl, 751 W. Second St., Xenia, gave the following statement Aug. 2, 1917: "I suffered with lame back, but the most annoying symptom was the irregular action of my kidneys. I felt languid when I arose in the morning and it seemed I never could get any rest. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Douglas' Drug Store, and they helped me immediately and the second box cured me entirely."

On Aug. 15, 1921, Mrs. Pohl said: "I am glad to again say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the one reliable kidney remedy that cured me of kidney trouble some years ago. I have had no further occasion to use Doan's but I am glad to confirm the statement I gave in 1917 in behalf of this remedy."

CLOSE RECREATION ASSOCIATION OFFICE

Doors of the Xenia Community Recreation Association headquarters on East Main Street were closed Wednesday for the winter.

Headquarters of the association were maintained in the room formerly occupied by the Witham grocery through the courtesy of the owner, E. S. Davidson, since June, when the organization was started.

Business pertaining to the organization should be transacted with the officers during the winter. E. M. Woodward, T. H. Zell, or the Rev. W. H. Tilford, Miss Grace Kierman, pageant executive, who completed the unexpired term of E. W. Burner as executive secretary and assisted in the staging of the pageant of Xenia, has concluded her term of service with the association.

Furniture used in the headquarters was loaned to the association by the public schools and has been returned to school authorities. The association will continue to meet during the winter and within a few weeks hope to be able to present plans for a fall and winter program.

CASE IS DROPPED

The case against Warren Stephens who was held in Columbus Saturday under $300 bond on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to Morris Lichtenstein, of Columbus, has been dropped, when Lichtenstein refused to prosecute, according to Stephens, now in Xenia.

According to Stephens the charge against him was the result of an accident he had had with Lichtenstein's car when he was taking it to be washed, on instructions from the owner. He said he took it to a garage for repairs without notifying Lichtenstein who later reported to police that his car had not been returned. The case was dropped Monday according to Stephens, when Lichtenstein learned the circumstances and exonerated Stephens of the charge.

Appetite Gone?

A tempting, delicious looking meal—all the choicest morsels from a well stocked pantry. The fragrant aroma of all these good things failing to put a keen edge on your appetite—failing to arouse, in any degree, a hardy relish for the food so attractively placed before you. Why? Scores of men and women are faced with the same misfortune. After a day of toil—when they are tired—when good things to eat should be ravishly sought to recharge their vitality and fit them for play time—their stomachs turn. They are worn down, played out. Food has no appeal. To them it is sickening. The aroma of appetizing things nauseates them.

Red blood cells are missing. Red blood which should be coursing through your veins strengthening your vitality—adding to your strength—keeping you healthy and fit—is not to be found.

S. S. S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. What use is an automobile without a battery? What advantage is a dynamo without electricity? Your body is a human dynamo. Your blood cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. Weakened blood cells make you like the storage battery with dry cells—power is lacking—energy gone—productive qualities at the lowest ebb. S. S. S. supplies the red blood cells—the spark that recharges your system.

Mr. James Chaloupka, Sherman School, Chillicothe, Ohio, writes: "I feel like a new man after taking S. S. S. It gave me a better appetite and cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads."

Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S. S. S.—the great blood purifier. Give nature a helping hand. Get back the lost appetite—the missing vitality—the keen, sparkling eyes—that look of determination. The best way to start back over the road to well being is with S. S. S. Nerves will become stronger. S. S. S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor, and a more "up and going" appearance.

S. S. S. is sold at all leading drug stores. Try a bottle and see for yourself. The large size bottle is more economical. Get one today.

THE LESSON OF THE PASSING OF PRESIDENT HARDING.

The news of President Harding's death was telegraphed and telephoned to Calvin Coolidge, the Vice President, as quickly as possible. He was at the little country home of his father up in Vermont when the tragic word reached him. He took the oath of office as President of the republic at once—by lamp light, in early morning, his own father, a notary public, administering the solemn obligation. A remarkable transition. The President dead. The new President sworn in without delay. No stop in the functioning of government such as ours. The captain of the Ship of State, stricken at the wheel, gave way to the succeeding helmsman. The ship shuddered some at this sudden release of the hand at the wheel, but in its course it deviated not a fraction of a point, for another hand, equal to the emergency, took hold at once. Is not this but another sign of union indissoluble?

The passing of Warren Harding, the ceremonious state funeral, the contrasting simple rites at the last resting place among his townfolk in Marion, Ohio—these found America in union of common grief; witnessed the process of government unstopped, the machinery of the national organism functioning with precision and with efficiency. A nation that can so mobilize its grief and its patriotism and its practical wisdom is a strong nation.

WE WILL STICK TO THE GOLD STANDARD.

Several bills were introduced in the last Congress (and will be reintroduced in the next) authorizing and directing the Treasury to issue paper money "to meet the business demands of the business world, and distribute it directly to the people." It is proposed to base this paper money on the wealth of the United States or its enormous resources, or inexhaustible riches all about us.

Look at Germany, a country of vast resources and wealth, probably amounting to 300,000,000,000 gold marks. Today more than forty-three trillion paper marks have been issued, several times the wealth of Germany on a gold basis; and the paper mark is worth nothing practically.

Instead of helping business it has killed business. Instead of helping the wage earner it has injured him irreparably. Confidence is gone, prices are fantastic and the whole economic and financial machinery is ruined.

Does any sane person want the United States to enter upon a similar experiment?

The cause of the currency inflation in Germany may be doubtful, but the fact of its existence and consequences is painfully apparent.

OBEDIENCE TO WILL OF MAJORITY.

The faith of our people in the stability and permanence of their institutions was like their faith in the eternal course of nature. Peace, liberty and personal security were blessings as common and universal as sunshine and showers and fruitful seasons; and all sprang from a single source, the principle declared in the Pilgrim covenant of 1620, that all owed due submission and obedience to the lawfully expressed will of the majority. This is not one of the doctrines of our political system, it is the system itself. It is our political firmament, in which all other truths are set, as stars in the heaven. It is the encasing air, the breath of the nation's life.—James A. Garfield.

THE HEART OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

When Lincoln laid down the tools of public service and started on his long, last adventure, the heart of the American people throbbed in sympathetic sorrow. It was the great heart of the union.

When Garfield was promoted to higher spheres of activity and left a weeping nation, the heart of America had faith in the republic, and trusted in Providence.

When Roosevelt started on his last journey of discovery, the heart-throb of a bereaved people was the call to patriotism and Americanism.

When the call to arms came and the mighty western republic entered the World War to end it, the heart of the American people swelled with national pride.

When the late President Harding was stricken, all factions, all groups, all parties, forgot their differences and stood with bowed heads and tear-dimmed eyes learning the lesson of personal sacrifice for the welfare of all.

In every great national crisis, in every calamity, the heart of the American people has stoutly and bravely stood the test.

These events prove that the American democracy within a republic is no longer an experiment, despite evidences and claims to the contrary.

Whenever danger signals are raised, giving warning of an approaching social or political storm (by some called a revolution), the great heart of the American people rises in defense of the everlasting principles and foundations of the nation.

"I have tried the experiment of keeping bottled home-made fruit drinks on ice, this summer," writes a Housekeeper Reader, "and it has been such a pleasure to offer aniced drink and a home-made cookie to anyone who came up on my porch. Now I am trying to think of dainty sandwiches or fancy cookies, that I could serve with a cup of tea, later on, when it is too cool to sit on the porch comfortably. Can you help me?"

It is a pleasure to help anyone as hospitable as this Reader. Friend. It is nice to be able to offer the "stranger within our gates" a cup of tea and a cookie. Somehow friendship ripens more easily over the teacups. My idea of a really enjoyable afternoon in Fall or Winter is to entertain some genial Housekeeper Friend before an open fire, with a tea-cart beside me and perhaps a bit of fancywork at hand, to pick up as we chat. The following dainties are all suitable for such informal entertaining:

Maple Marguerites: Beat the whites of two eggs stiff, add three tablespoons of crushed maple sugar, and whip again till very stiff. Their mix in one cup of either walnut meats or roasted peanuts finely chopped, and spread this mixture on small unsweetened crackers (saltines will do). Slip the crackers into a slow oven, to bake until the nut-meringue is brown. Serve cold.
Cocconut Sandwiches: Melt one tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add two tablespoons of sugar, and cool. Then add two tablespoons of grated cocconut, the juice of one lemon, and two well-beaten eggs. Let this mixture boil up once or twice, over moderate heat, then cool before spreading on thin, crustless slices of bread.

COSTS MORE THAN LINIMENT. WHY?

For the same reason that gold costs more than brass, that diamonds cost more than glass, Enarco costs more than liniment—because, as doctors say, it is "miles ahead of liniment." One nurse writes, "I would rather have a few drops of Enarco than a whole quart of liniment!"

Orange Sandwiches: Put one cup of confectioners' sugar into a bowl and add only just enough sweet milk to form a stiff paste. Now melt one heaping tablespoon of butter and add this. Season with the grated rind of two oranges. (Lemon rind may be used in the same way.) Spread on thin slices of graham bread.

Marshmallow Dainties: Put a marshmallow between two salty, square crackers (or any kind of small, unsweetened cracker) and sprinkle the top of the upper cracker with a little granulated sugar mixed with a little ground cinnamon. Slip these cracker-sandwiches into a very hot oven and leave them there only long enough for the sugar to melt slightly and for the marshmallow to become soft enough to begin to run; press the hot crackers together a little, and cool before serving.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

GIVING
When friendly hands come in and bring
To me some kindly offering,
It pleases me some day to take
A gift to them for friendship's sake.

I jump with joy when they make known
A trinket they would like to own;
And with that gift to them I go
My gratitude and love to show.

Life daily plays the friend to me,
It gives me splendors I may see,
The stars at night, the morning sun,
The playground where the children run.

It gives me laughter through the years,
Strength for my task and faith for tears,
Love at my hearth, and all I own—

A new day when today has flown.
Then shall I, taking while I live
So much from life, not also give
A little of myself in turn.

Shall I take all, and day by day
Give nothing back along the way?
Shall naught of service come from me
That life on earth may happier be?

Or shall I not rejoice to find
Some little need for being kind,
And seize the chance this gift to make
To one from whom so much I take?

That heart is cold and dull as stone
Where gratitude is never known,
And thoughtless he who while he lives
Takes all from life, but nothing gives.

Today's Talk

Life can come to us with little of charm or inspiration unless we have first learned the vital points about its living.

We pass through periods. But as we age in learning, we stand more erect, feel deeper, and in this sobered state stand our ground against the odds of life and face the large task—that of taking on intelligence of heart and soul.

How small the little temptations of reward in intrinsic value, when placed beside the results of a developed experience!

Learn first to live—and all the beauties of ambition and striving will blossom at your feet.

Wealth and fame and glory are the prizes of little tasks. The large task of living desires no such gifts.

The large task itself is a gift—and one that warms the conscious being and gives to it its breath and ruddy glow.

I am looking into the sunken face of Lincoln which hangs upon my wall beside my desk. I see the large task in him, that looms with time—a thing as immortal as time itself, for it has become a part of time.

Every effort that you make immediately melts into some phase of conscious life and fits you that much better to cope with things now un-revealed. Bear strong. Mount fear. Believe.

The large task is the one that stamps finality upon your soul.

Xenia City Public Schools To Open Monday, September 10, For Fall Term

Xenia City public grade and high schools will open September 10, at eight o'clock in the morning according to announcement of C. A. Waltz, Superintendent.

A record enrollment is expected in line with the annual increase in attendance recorded in recent years. Last year more than 2,000 were enrolled. With the beginning of the school year Xenia's new Central High School building will be put in use for the first time and the old building, which has housed high school students since 1881 will be practically abandoned.

Abandonment of the old building and inauguration for use of the new structure has resulted in a re-assignment of students in what is known as the central school district, including the transfer of McKinley Junior High School established in the McKinley Building, West Market Street, to the new Central High School.

Children of the first grade of the central district will be located in the kindergarten room in the northeast corner of the ground floor of the old Central building which will be the room in use. Pupils of the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the central district will attend school at the McKinley Building.

Pupils of the Junior High School will attend the new Central High building, where they will occupy the second and third floors of the west side of the building. The school will continue under the principalship of Miss May Harper, as heretofore.

All high school students will attend school at the new building. There will be no changes made in the Lincoln, Orient Hill, McKinley and Spring Hill school districts. Pupils of the Opportunity School will hold their classes in the Central Annex Building, East Church Street.

School will open at all buildings at eight o'clock in the morning under a new time schedule to be put in effect this year by Supt. Waltz. The noon dismissal will be at 11:30 o'clock and school will re-convene at 12:45 o'clock, the afternoon session closing formally at 3:45 o'clock in all schools. Teachers are to report at their respective buildings not later than 7:45 in the morning. Pupils are not supposed to be on the school grounds before 7:45 o'clock in the morning and teachers will not be responsible for pupils on the grounds before that time. Pupils not in their rooms by eight o'clock will be counted tardy. The same method of classifying pupils in the various grades in sections A, B and C was in use last year will be continued. The point system will also be used in all grades of the elementary and secondary schools.

Superintendent Waltz is urging parents to co-operate with the schools in securing excellent school work, punctuality and attendance, and requesting that they also limit requests for excuses from school for any portion of the day to cases of absolute necessity such as sickness. Appointments with physicians, dentists, or music teachers or for similar reasons should be arranged for Saturday or after school hours, he suggests. High school pupils will not be excused to work during school hours. Parents are also asked to provide suitable conditions for a reasonable amount of home study for pupils in all grades above the third.

Because there is a nine months or 36 weeks school term in force here, school authorities have divided the term into four quarters of nine weeks each. At the close of each quarter the pupils report cards will be sent home to parents or guardians. About the middle of each quarter commendation and deficiency slips will be sent home, thus giving parents a report on pupils' progress about once a month. Parents are urged to keep in touch with the school work of their children through visitation at the school and conference with the teacher.

All complaints and criticisms should be carried directly to the superintendent of schools according to

Superintendent Waltz. Teachers are not to be interrupted during school hours by parents who are dissatisfied with their children's work. If there is dissatisfaction or criticism the proper place to take it is to the superintendent's office his hours being from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock in the morning and from three to five o'clock in the afternoon. All business pertaining to school should be transacted between those hours the remaining time the superintendent is visiting the classrooms of the teachers.

There will be a general teachers' meeting held Saturday morning Sept. 8, at ten o'clock in the auditorium of the new Central High School, according to Superintendent Waltz. Teachers will meet with their principals at the various buildings where they are to teach at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Teachers who do not possess State Life Teaching certificates those who do not hold other than Xenia City Certificates and those whose certificates expire this September will be required to meet with the Xenia City Board of School Examiners Friday, September 7, at nine o'clock in the morning for the purpose of taking the examination for a certificate. These teachers are expected to meet at the office of Supt. Waltz, ground floor of the new building. The board of examiners is composed of Miss Anna Morrow, president, Harper C. Pendry and C. A. Waltz.

More than a hundred years have passed since Benjamin Franklin penned this warning. Yet, what a good motto it is today.

There are still with us those who would have us forget that value received and price paid must always balance. In the long run, however, people don't forget. We are building for the future. ## SMALL DONATIONS FOR JAPAN RELIEF SOUGHT LOCALLY

Small contributions will be just as acceptable as large donations according to officials of Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross in its campaign to raise relief funds for the suffering people of stricken Japan.

The chapter here is now receiving contributions for the purpose designated as the Japanese Relief Fund, and urges that contributions be turned in or mailed in at once to the headquarters in the Court House.

No quota has been set for Greene County, but a generous response is expected to relieve the suffering of the Japanese and many Americans caught in the earthquake, fire and flood disasters. Montgomery has set $30,000 as a quota, while Columbus and Franklin County will raise $20,000; Cincinnati and Hamilton County, $100,000 and Cleveland and Cuyahoga County, $160,000.

Checks should be made out to the Greene County Red Cross.

Rev. W. H. Telford, chairman of the Greene County Chapter Wednesday, received a telegram from Governor Donahy relative to relief donations and called attention to a proclamation he has issued. The wire reads:

"Am forwarding proclamation, Japanese relief. Please tell newspapers. Subscriptions may be mailed to you as agent of the Red Cross."

(Signed) Vic Donahy.

Illness of two years resulted in his death and his condition had been serious since June. He suffered from heart trouble and complications. ## Styles BY LENORE

Velours de laine is a soft, woody shade of brown, combines with seal to make this charmingly youthful suit, which indicates which way the wind will blow in young women's tailors. At least one of the ways. For no little importance is given to the slender three-quarter length coat introduced in Paris, and gray furs, notably squirrel, are stressed as trimmings. Many young women, however, has a preference for the hipline type of coat, which with the snug band fastening frequently gives a buoyant swing to the figure not possible with a longer coat.

Skirts are fairly short for daytime wear. The wraparound movement is conspicuous, hemlines are frequently uneven, often marked by a point in the front, as in the model illustrated; and where there are panels in the back, they are often longer than the skirt. Fur edgings are also to be noted.

In addition to velour de laine, broadcloth and ribbed fabrics are in favor, and the French models are frequently brightened with embroidery or a slender stitching of dull gold.

applied, for example, in the same manner as the self-cording in the suit sketched above. Save the clipping.

A WIFE'S STORY

By Jane Phelps

By Jane Phelps
SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS

13 year old Ruby Atkins marries Paul Norwood, counter to the wishes of her parents and brother, Tom. Norwood, at 25, has dissipated a small fortune and has no particular occupation. He is something of a dilettante but provides his wife with a good home, maid and car. He also maintains bachelor rooms in town where he claims to spend time working on a novel that he is writing.

Ruby makes friends, among them Evelyn Markham and her husband. A year after their marriage little Joan is born. She is not welcomed by Paul who grumbles continually about expenses but refuses to retrench. His novel is also turned down by the publishers. Tom, visiting his sister, discovers that he gambles. Ruby overhears. Dave Logan, a questionable friend of Paul's promises to secure Norwood a position.

Chapter XIX

I remained on the porch until Paul returned. I was excited, longed to talk to him about Logan's offer. Was it possible he had so much influence that he could guarantee Paul a position? Evelyn surely was mistaken in her idea of the man. He was kind, at least. Yet as the thought flashed through my mind I also felt a return of the repugnance I felt for him; and I shuddered as I recalled the pressure of his hand when he left, the look in his eyes as he bent them upon me. I tried to laugh at my folly in thinking he meant anything, the wife of his friend, the mother of two children, but I could not divest myself of the feeling there had been meaning in his glances.

"He's so used to ogling women he can't help it," I finally said aloud, just as Paul appeared. "Do you really think you will get that position?" I asked breathlessly, as he threw himself into a chair near me. "If I want it!" he answered shortly.

"If you want it!" I repeated. "What do you mean?" You know we are awfully in debt, have no money. How can you talk that way?" "I disapprove of your meddling in my affairs. Fortunately it did no harm with Logan; he seemed to take quite a fancy to you. But don't make it a precedent. I'm quite capable yet of attending to my own business without your help."

"I didn't mean to meddle, Paul," I replied, hoping to placate him. "but I have been so anxious. I can't believe yet such a position will come so easily."

"Nonsense! Logan knows men of my kind aren't easy to find. He's probably got some axe to grind with the firm, wants to make himself solid by getting them a superior man."

Oh, the boundless egotism of that speech! How it made me writhe. "You will surely take it—if it is offered?" I asked after a moment.

"Yes, I think so. I will try for a time anyway if the salary is big enough."

"Even if it isn't as large as you think you should get do take it, Paul. You will have to learn the business you know."

"I probably know more about it than anyone they have at that," he replied, yawning. "Well, I'm going to turn in. I have to meet Logan at 10 o'clock. If I take the position, he stopped to say, 'they will have to understand right from the beginning that I won't be tied down to hours. I'm no office boy to work by the clock.'

I sat on the porch for some time longer. Would Paul be able to fill the position if he secured it? Would any business firm stand for his egotistical talk, his high opinion of himself, and what was his due? I felt very doubtful. But perhaps I was worrying unnecessarily. Logan had said a man of Paul's sort was sure to succeed. So with an unspoken prayer on my lips I too went to bed.

I arose early and had a good breakfast ready for Paul. He dwaddled so over it I was afraid he'd miss his train.

"What if I do?" he said when I suggested he hurry. "There's another one in half an hour."

"But that would make you late for your appointment," I urged.

"I told you last night I wasn't an office boy, that I didn't intend to work by the clock. Do stop nagging and let me eat in peace."

I said no more, but when Joan came in and asked to walk to the station with him I sent her quickly out of the room. She would be sure to delay him.

Finally he finished and deliberately left the house. I watched him go sauntering down the street, then with eyes on the clock I listened for the train. It was five minutes late. He had been in time after all, I had had my worry for nothing.

All day I was restless, nervous. Why hadn't I asked him to telephone me if he were successful in obtaining the position?

"I must be patient, I'll know at 6 o'clock," I said aloud.

"What will you know, Mother?" Joan asked.

"Something that will either make me happy or sad," I replied evasively.

Tomorrow—Paul Secures The Position.
